A Romance of the Days When the Lord Redeemed the Children of Israel from the Bondage of Egypt

By Elizabeth Miller

Copyright, 1904, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"So thou didst think it, in truth," she hid her face again and craved his pardon.

But he pressed her to him and soothed her.

"Nay, I do not chide thee. Had I been in thy place I might have thought the same. But it is passed, gone with the horrors of this horrible season, Ostris be thanked."

"Thanks be to the God of Israel!" she demanded from her shelter.

"And the God of Israel," he said obediently.

"Nay, to the God of Israel alone," she insisted, raising her head.

He laughed a little and patted her hands softly together.

"It was but the habit in me that made me name Ostris. There is no god for me but Love."

"So long, so long, Kenkenes, and not any change in thee?" she sighed.

"How hath Egypt been helped of her gods these grievous days?"

"The gods and the gods and ever the gods," he said. "What have we to do with them? Deborah bade me turn from them, and so I have done with all sincerity. Much have I pondered on the question, and this have I concluded. Egypt's holy temples have been vainly built; her worship has been wasted on the air. There was and is a Creator; but, Rachel, that power whose mind is troubled with the great things is too great to behold the petty concerns of men. My fortunes and thine we must direct, for, though we implored that power till we died from the fervor of our supplications, it could not hear, whose ears are filled with the murmurings of the traveling stars. Why we were created and forgotten we may not know. How may we guess the motives of anything too great for us to conceive? Whatsoever befalls us results from our use at the hands of men or from the nature of our abiding place. We must defend ourselves, prosper ourselves and live for what we make of life. After that we shall not know the troubles and the joys of the world, for the tombs are restful and soundless. Is it not so, my Rachel?"

She shook her head. "Thou hast gone astray, Kenkenes, but thou wast untaught."

"I have reasoned, Rachel, and the power I have found in my ponderings makes all the gods seem little. Thy God must manifest himself more fearfully. He must overthrow my reasoning before I can bow to him. And if of a surety he is greater than the power I have made, will he need any adoration or listen to my prayers? Nay, nay, my Rachel. If thou wilt have me worship, let me fall on my face to thee."

She interrupted him with a quick gesture.

"Kenkenes, have I prayed in vain for the light to fall on thee?" she asked sadly.

He smiled and moved closer, looking down into her face as he had done when he studied it as Athor.

"Nay, hast thou done that and hast thou not been heard? Thou dost but fix me in mine unbelief. Did any god exist he would have heard the supplications. Come, let us make an end of this. There are sweeter themes I would discuss. Where hast thou been these many months? Not here in this haunted cave?"

His lightness sank her hope to the lowest ebb. A sudden hurt reached her heart. His ungenerosity suggested unfaithfulness to her. Their positions had been reversed. It was she that had been denied. Duty reassured itself with a chiding sting.

"I have been a guest with Masanath."

"The daughter of Har-hat?" he cried, retreating a step.

"The daughter of mine enemy," she went on. "She found me here by accident and took me to her home in Memphis. There Deborah died. And there, eighteen days ago, I discovered who it was that sheltered me, and now I return to my people."

Kenkenes whitened.

"And leave me?" he asked quietly.

"Think me not ungrateful," she said. "I have said no word of thanks, since there is none that can express a tithe of my great indebtedness to thee."

"I have achieved nothing for thee. Not even have I won thy freedom. I have failed. But shameless in mine undersuits I am come to ask my reward nevertheless." He was very near to her, his face full of purpose and intensity, his voice of great restraint.

"That which once thou didst refuse to hear thou hast known for long by other proof than words," he went on. "Let me say it now. I love thee, Rachel. Taking her cold hands he drew her back to him.

"Once I forbore," he continued, the persuasive calm in his manner heightening, "because I knew it would hurt thee to say me 'nay.' I told myself that I was brave then when the actual loss of thee was distant. But thou wilt leave me now, and my fortitude for thy sake is gone. I am selfish because I love thee so. The extreme is reached. I can withstand no more. Dost thou love me, Rachel?"

What need for him to wait for the word that gave assent? Was there not eloquent testimony in her every feature and in every act of that hour he had been with her? But his hands trembled holding hers till she told him "aye."

"Then ask what thou wilt of me," he said, the restraint gone, desperation taking its place. "I submit, so thou dost yield thyself to me. Shall I pray thy prayers, kneel in thy shrines? Shall I go back with thee into slavery? Shall I learn thy tongue, turn my back on my people, become one of Israel and hate Egypt? These things will I do and more so I shall find thee all mine own when they are done."

But she freed her hands to cover her face and weep. Kenkenes sighed from the very heaviness of his unhappiness.

to be so foolish that thou thinkest thyself as naught in his sight. In that last thou goest astray. The mind is gross that cannot heed the weak and small. Shall we say that the spinner of the gossamer, the painter of the rose, is not fine? Shall he forget his daintiest, faintest works for his mightiest? Thou, artist and creator thyself, Kenkenes, answer for him. Nay, not so! He who hath an ear to the lapse between an hour and an hour hath counted his song birds and numbered his blossoms. For are they, being small, less wondrous than the heavens, his handiwork? Shall he then fail to hear the voice of his sons in whom he hath taken greater pains?"

She paused, and he answered in a half whisper:

"Thou dost shake me in mine heresy. Give me time—time to more—return not to Goshen. Come back to Memphis with me!" He begged in rapid words, pressing a problem alone in a moment. How shall I find God in an hour?"

"But after the manner of man thou wilt put off and wait and wait. Thou art too able, Kenkenes, too full of power for aid of mine!"

"Rachel, if thou goest into Goshen"—he began passionately, but she clutched him wildly as if to hold him, though death itself dragged at her fingers.

"Hide me!" she gasped in a terrified whisper. "The servant of Har-hat!"

GOWDY COMING HOME

Retiring Consul General to Paris Will Soon Be on the High Seas.

Indianapolis, Sept. 21.—Word has been received by A. T. Jones of Rushville, financial agent for the Hon. John K. Gowdy, retiring consul general to Paris, that he and his family will leave Paris to arrive in Liverpool Oct. 2, and will reach Rushville Oct. 21. During home. The Gowdys will stop at New York and Washington a few days and will reach Rushville Oct. 21. During Mr. Gowdy's eight years as consul general his agent has invested $100,000 for him in farm lands in Rush county, and he now has one of the finest places in the state. Colonel W. T. Durbin, ex-governor, and others who have just returned from a visit with the Gowdys at Paris say that Mr. Gowdy has no intention of becoming a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor in 1908.

Several justice and police court juries have about established it as a fact here that Sunday shaving is a necessity, regardless of the Indiana law which says that barber shops shall be closed on the Sabbath. For several months the union barbers have been carrying on a crusade against barbers who keep open Sundays. They have caused many arrests, but in spite of the fact that the law says very plainly that shops shall not be open, the men under arrest have been acquitted. Their attorneys have set up the claim that Sunday shaving is a necessity if a man wants to go to church looking presentable, and that regardless of the law the shops should not be molested for rendering such a blessing to individuals and society in general. On the other hand the union men have insisted that the law is plain and that all men could get their shaves on Saturdays. The cases have been dragging along for months. The last one was disposed of yesterday, when a boss barber whose shop has been open every Sunday, was acquitted.

Vice President Fairbanks will leave Friday for Bellefontaine, Ohio, to be present Saturday at the opening of the Ohio Republican campaign. He will be one of the principal speakers. Governor Herrick and Senator Foraker will be the other two. It will probably be the only political speech the vice president will deliver this year, and very naturally much interest attaches to what he will say. The vice president is a native of Ohio, although most of his life has been spent in Indiana, and it will give him much pleasure to help out the Republicans of his former state. He is living quietly at his home on North Meridian street, but much of his time is occupied in preparation of addresses he is under engagement to deliver soon. He expects, however, to spend most of his time in Indianapolis until Nov. 15.

T. Taggart, Democratic national chairman, is en route to New York. During the last campaign it was a very common thing to hear of Taggart leaving for New York, as the committee headquarters were located there, but since the landslide he has spent most of his time at the big hotel at French Lick. His mission is not known, but the ingenious correspondents will no doubt soon get it figured out to a fine point just what he is doing, and by tomorrow night some big political yarns with Taggart as a central figure may be expected from New York.

EVIDENCE OF REFORM

A Hard Blow Has Been Struck at Gang Politics in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—In a most unusual convention followed by an unprecedented demonstration, the new city party, a reform body opposed to the methods of the Republican organization, nominated a county ticket to be voted for at the November election. This convention was the first in many years in this city to which the delegates went instructed. There was no "slate" and each of the 917 delegates was at liberty to name whom he pleased for the offices. The result was a selection of candidates who fairly represent the reform element that has come into prominence since Mayor Weaver's break with the organization last May.

LIFE MADE WEARY

Mr. McCall Says Democratic Importunities For Money Made Him Tired

President of New York Life Insurance Company Gives More Light on Campaign Contributions.

He Says the Democrats Were Crossing His Path Every Step He Took Looking For Money.

New York, Sept. 21.—Political contributions of the New York Life Insurance company and the connection of Andrew A. Hamilton of Albany with the alleged political activity of the company are the points around which the hearing before the legislative insurance investigation have turned.

President John A. McCall of the New York Life Insurance company was the chief witness and for several hours he was subjected to a fire of questions by Charles E. Hughes, counsel for the committee, concerning the money paid for political purposes. The climax was reached when Mr. McCall declared that the soliciting of funds for campaign purposes was not confined to the Republican party in the campaign of 1904, and announced:

"My life was made weary by the Democratic candidates chasing me for money in that campaign. Some of the very men who today are being interviewed in the papers and denouncing men who contribute to campaigns were crossing my path every step I took looking for money. One—the candidate himself, Parker, if he would show up his books when he was chairman of the Democratic state committee, it would give you a fit. He never rejected a dollar in the world. He would take every dollar that was paid to him."

Judge Parker was chairman of the Democratic state executive committee in 1885.

Mr. McCall's statement was greeted with wild cheering which continued until a threat was made to clear the room of listeners if the crowd did not restrain itself.

With great care, the account of Andrew A. Hamilton with the company was analyzed by Mr. Hughes, who asked Mr. McCall about every item, and made it clear that a search was being made for political contributions. Mr. McCall stoutly maintained that he had given Mr. Hamilton no money to be used in influencing legislation at Albany, but the admission was obtained from Mr. McCall that Hamilton's expenses at Albany were paid from the company's funds and that his accounts were not submitted to audit. It was shown that $235,000 had been paid to Hamilton with only a verbal accounting to President McCall and that a present Hamilton owes the company about $60,000, but Mr. McCall said he felt sure that Hamilton, who is now in Europe, will repay this sum upon the company's demand.

Parker Gets From Under.

Judge Alton B. Parker, Democratic candidate for president in 1904, has given the press a statement concerning President McCall's testimony relative to the soliciting of funds from the New York Life Insurance company Democrats in 1904. The statement follows:

"My attention has been called to certain testimony said to have been given by Mr. John A. McCall, while a witness before the insurance investigation committee in reply to Mr. Hughes's questions whether he thought 'that in 1904 the interests of the policy holders were so seriously endangered that the company ought to contribute.'"

"It is evident that Mr. McCall was laboring under great excitement in making his reply, for it is very incoherent. But if his answer is intended to convey the impression that in the campaign of 1904, I either directly or indirectly, solicited from him or his corporation or any other corporation, any money or valuable thing, his statement is absolutely false."

"On the contrary, I repeat now what I said before the election, that I expressly notified and directed the chairman of the executive committee of the national committee that no money should be received from corporations."

William F. Sheehan's attention was called to the testimony of Mr. McCall, and he said:

"I was chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee. There was not a single man connected with the Democratic national campaign that solicited a dollar from Mr. McCall. If any such person made any such solicitation Mr. McCall should name him."

John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance company, referring to his testimony before the legislative committee in relation to contributions to the Democratic party, said: "The meaning I intended to convey when I mentioned Judge Parker was this: Judge Parker, when a candidate for the presidency last year, did not ask me for campaign funds, but friends of his did so repeatedly. Judge Parker, as chairman of the state Democratic committee several years ago did, however, accept proffered contributions to the campaign fund."

Compliment to the President.

Washington, Sept. 21.—It can now be stated definitely that the exchange of ratification of the treaty of peace between Japan and Russia will take place in Washington after the treaty has been ratified by the respective sovereigns. It is probable that this will be done in the White House as a compliment to President Roosevelt, but no definite arrangements have been made nor has it been decided by whom the treaties will be exchanged.

Short-Lived Liberty.

GOING AFTER COIN

State Will Sue Gambling Resorts For Money Sherrick Lost.

EXECUTIVE IN EARNEST

Governor Hanly Says if People Will Support Him Monto Carlos Which Disgrace State Will Be Closed.

Marion County Grand Jury Has Started An Official Investigation of the Sherrick Matter.

Indianapolis, Sept. 21.—The Marion county grand jury today began an investigation of the case of David M. Sherrick, the deposed auditor of state, who is $145,000 short in his accounts and who was bound over by Police Judge Whallon on a charge of embezzlement. Governor Hanly, Warren Bigler Sherrick's successor, and John Reed, settlement clerk in the auditor's office, have been subpoenaed as witnesses. It would not be surprising if indictments should be returned against Sherrick before the end of the week, as he has admitted that he invested the state's funds, which is contrary to law.

The Sherrick case may furnish the governor with a wedge to get under the gambling resorts at French Lick and West Baden, which he is now publicly pledged to close permanently. Attorney General Miller says that the state will probably begin suit soon to collect the $10,000 which the governor declares Sherrick lost at the French Lick casino. It is also likely that the American Surety company, which gave Sherrick's bond, will join in the suit to recover the money lost at gambling, as it stands to lose between $45,000 and $50,000 on account of Sherrick's shortage. R. O. Hawkins, attorney for the company, said that if evidence is produced that Sherrick lost large sums gambling, every effort would be made to collect it. Governor Hanly is said to be in possession of evidence that Sherrick lost other large sums over the gaming tables, and more suits may be the result.

The state will not lose by Sherrick's action, as the surety company has decided to waive claim to the investments he made. It is now believed that about $100,000 will be realized from them. As Sherrick's bond was $100,000, the state can't lose, but the surety company may be out $50,000. Sherrick's shortage was reduced this morning $19,825.01, the amount he had deposited in the Farmers' and Merchants' bank at Cicero, Ind., as the money was paid into the treasury. Attorney General Miller says the state certainly has the right to collect all its funds that Sherrick invested.

The governor's utterances and the statement of the attorney general that suit will be filed, to collect the money lost at gambling has again brought the French Lick and West Baden casinos into the public limelight. There is much speculation, however, as to how the state will proceed against them to close them up or to collect the money which Sherrick is said to have lost. The casino at French Lick, for instance, is under an entirely different management from what it was in 1903, when the governor says Sherrick lost $10,000 of the state's money. It is not known on whom the state could get legal service if the suit were instituted, as T. Taggart, president and one of the proprietors of the hotel property, has never operated the gambling resort and is not supposed to own any stock in it. It is not believed that he or his company could be dragged into the courts to settle for what Sherrick lost. The casino changed hands only a few weeks ago at the time there was talk that the governor was about to close it down.

Since the governor made the charge that Sherrick lost heavily at French Lick and referred to him as a common gambler, the question of whether or not the information about Sherrick was furnished by R. Harry Miller of Fairmount, the governor's detective, has arisen. Miller spent thirty-four days at French Lick, for which the governor paid him $10 a day out of the state treasury. His business there, according to stories printed at the time, was to get evidence relative to the gambling, to be used by the governor in efforts to close the place.

No one familiar with the resorts at French Lick or West Baden has ever been able to figure out why Miller required so much time to get all the information that was necessary about the gambling. In view of the developments in the Sherrick case many believe that the governor sent Miller to French Lick to dig up evidence against the auditor and that he made the public charges against Sherrick in his Hamilton and Fort Wayne speeches largely on the strength of Miller's report. At Fort Wayne the governor created great enthusiasm when he said: "If the people of the state will support me, I and I believe they will, the two Monto Carlos of Indiana, at French Lick and West Baden, which today disgrace the state, will be closed and permanently closed, unless the law of the state as now written proves ineffective."

Fred Gemmer, the governor's private secretary, declares that Miller knew nothing whatever of the Sherrick case until the morning of the day his resignation was forced. He said that it was not Miller's mission to French Lick to get evidence regarding Sherrick's gambling. He did not disclose where the governor got the information.

Prosecutor Benedict declares that the grand jury will thoroughly investigate W. S. Wickard's connection with the case. Wickard's name was signed to $50,000 worth of notes for the J. H. Murry Lumber company, Sherrick having let him have that amount. The governor says the notes are forgeries. Wickard has threatened to sue him for libel, but has not filed a complaint in court.

Demand Treaty's Rejection.
Tokio, Sept. 21.—An anti-peace meeting held in Ueyena park was barely attended owing to a heavy rain. The tone of the meeting was quiet. The approaches to the park were guarded by troops, but no guards were posted inside. Resolutions adopted at the meeting demand that the cabinet break the peace treaty or resign. It was decided to bring pressure to bear on members of the lower house to conform with the resolution threatening not to re-elect those failing to so act.

Citizens Prompt to Act.
Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 21.—One thousand citizens forming a bucket line probably saved this city from destruction by fire last night. The fire started in a livery stable and was caused by an explosion of a gasoline stove. The flames were carried by a high wind and spread so rapidly that it soon became evident that the fire department had more than it could handle and an appeal was made to the citizens. The total loss is estimated at $75,000.

German Convoy Surprised.
Capetown, Sept. 21.—It is officially announced that the Witbois, in evading the sweeping columns of General Von Trotha, commander-in-chief in German Southwest Africa, surprised a German convoy near Keetmanshoop, Namaqualand, practically annihilated its escort and captured thousands of cattle, 122 wagons, many rifles and a quantity of ammunition.

Jury Acquitted Him.
Sydney, O., Sept. 21.—Frank D. Reed, former cashier of the bankrupt German-American bank of this city, was found not guilty by a jury of the charge of embezzlement upon which he was indicted.

A woman worn-out, who never has to lift a hand for herself, who does not know the meaning of the word "worry"! How can it be possible? That it is possible is proved by the experience of many a woman who, because of sleeplessness, nervousness, backache and other womanly ills, becomes an utter physical wreck.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

It suffered for five years with inflammation which caused violent pain and often torture so bad at times that I could not be about to attend to my daily duties," writes Mrs. Julius C. Bell, of Bathurst, Kingston, Ont. "Life was simply misery to me and I did not know what way to turn for relief. Had tried doctors but found they did not help me. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—curing it in glowing terms. I decided to give it a trial and brought a bottle home. I am happy to say that after the use of the first bottle I felt so much improved I decided to take another and after that a third bottle, I have good reasons to be pleased, for I am to-day a well woman, work is easy and the world looks bright. I have perfect health, thanks to your medicine."

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

IN A recent address Governor Hanly urged publicity as a means to safeguard the interests of the people. Good point and one that the newspapers have been making for years. The grafter is always afraid of the light of publicity. Whenever you find an officer who objects to making reports to the public as the law requires it is time to watch. He does not want to take the people into his confidence.
Publicity is the correct idea. It never embarrasses an honest official.

FREIGHT cars are marked as having a certain carrying capacity. Their holding capacity in some instances is really less than this. Yet the companies sometimes charge for what the cars are supposed to hold rather than what they do hold. Recently the Oolitic Stone company of Silversville complained of this to the railroad commission. Very reasonably, we think, the commission declared that such charges are excessive and should cease. This again is an illustration of the effective work that the railroad commission has a chance to do and is actually doing. It is not likely that Indiana will ever dispense with the services of a railroad commission.

SPYING OUT

What Mr. Irwin Said After His Return Home.

The Columbus Times, after speaking of the visit of Irwins here quotes Mr.
Irwin after his return home Wednesday as follows:

"When Mr. Irwin was asked the purpose of the trip he said it was for the object to 'spy out the country.'" Asked as to the probability of extending his interurban line over either the east or west side route, he said either route would be nice to build over, but that he didn't see much prospect of such line being built. He said, though, that if the line was built to Seymour then a line extending to Louisville and French Lick would be another proposition. He said he did not look upon this extension with much favor, but that he might some day consider it."

Auto Rebuilt.

Dr. W. M. Coryell has rebuilt Dr. Carter's automobile which was burned last year. When Dr. Coryell came into possession of the remains of this auto he had nothing but the iron parts that went through a hot fire. To the average observer they seemed good for nothing but the junk pile. But Dr. Coryell is a mechanic and he went to work with what was left of the machine. He worked for months at odd times until he had made the machinery over and now it is as good as new. He then made the body and trimmed it up and painted it nicely. Wednesday evening he gave it a trial trip and it worked to perfection. He now has a good machine the result of his own handiwork.

Sues Pullman Company.

Chas. T. Benton, of Brownstown, has brought suit against the Pullman Car Company for $1000 damages. On his return home from Denver recently he purchased a Pullman ticket to Kansas City. The conductor took his ticket and he occupied that berth for which he paid. About midnight he was awakened by the conductor and told that his ticket was not good on that train and he would have to get off. This he refused to do voluntarily, and at the next stop the conductor led him out.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. MONEY SAVERS.

Are You Among Those Who Are Accumulating.

If you are saving something from your earnings, be it ever so little, you are doing the part of a wise man. If you are not saving something each week from your earnings the sooner you begin, the better off you will be. Nothing gives a man such a feeling of independence and security as to have a little money ahead to meet any unexpected expense or to make a profit able investment when it presents itself.

The Co-operative Building and Loan Association offers the easiest possible plan for regular savings in any amount, twenty-five cents per week or any multiple of twenty-five cents. For each share of stock you take in this Association you invest twenty-five cents per week. This money is loaned on first mortgage security and as soon as the earnings and principle amount to one hundred dollars, the stock is mature and you draw out the money hardly missing the payments that have made you a snug sum of money.

Series 1 of this stock starts Monday Oct. 2. See the secretary W. F. Peter, for full particulars.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had while serving on a petit jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Ceboune county, Alabama. He says:

"While there I ate some fresh meat and some soured meat and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and sent to the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead saying that he had what I set for but as this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me in the first place. I took one dose and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us. Sold by C. W. Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat-producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated. Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

Digests What You Eat

Rests the stomach, rebuilds the tissues and gives firm flesh.

Dollar bottle holds 2 1/2 times as much as the trial, or 50 cent size.

DUE TO VENDETTA

It Is Now the Belief That Italian Feud Caused Hales Death.

MYSTERY UNEXPLAINED

Porter County Man Called From His Home at Night and Murdered by Unknown Person.

It Is Now Learned That Hales Had Quarreled With Italian Workmen on His Farm.

Laporte, Ind., Sept. 21.—After extensive investigation, Sheriff Green of Porter county announces that he believes the death of Wayne Hales, who was called from his home late at night three weeks ago and murdered, is the work of an Italian vendetta. It is known that Hales and an Italian whom he employed around the farm had quarreled and the latter threatened to kill Hales. Evidence from Chicago and Pittsburgh upholds Sheriff Green's theory.

BITTERLY RESENTED

Brown County People Up in Arms Over Partition Scheme.

Columbus, Ind., Sept. 21.—Brown county citizens resent the statement sent out from Bloomington that the citizens of the county would ask the next legislature to wipe the county off the map. The dispatch also said that an effort would be made to have the county divided between Johnson, Bartholomew, Jackson and Lawrence counties. Just why Monroe county did not get a slice the correspondent failed to state.

When the news became known in the county there was a general "whooping up" and the country telephone lines were kept busy. The people who live in the county wish it understood that they are proud of their native hearth and that they will fight rather than be apportioned among the neighboring counties. Prominent citizens of the county discussed the matter from all sides and they decided that if anything like this was attempted every man, woman and child in the county should be sent to the legislature to lobby against the bill.

Alleged Shortage of $15,000.

Bluffton, Ind., Sept. 21.—J. C. Graves, after auditing the county books filed suit against Joel Frye, ex-trustee of Lancaster township, demanding $15,000 alleged to be due the township. He was riding south on a "speeder," about a mile north of Memphis, when he was struck by a passenger train. The trainmen think he was so intent on watching the wires that he did not hear the whistle.

Political Sensation at Richmond.

Richmond, Ind., Sept. 21.—The effort to oust the two members of the police board and Police Superintendent Gorman is creating a sensation here. Neither side in the squabble will say anything about the matter, and it is evident that all concerned are waiting till the governor takes some action.

Crushed by Falling Tree.

SEEING AMERICA.

Wonderful Scenic Trip Across Rocky Mountains to Oregon Exposition.

In certain respects the excursions to the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition, Portland, Oregon, via Pennsylvania Lines, beginning May 2nd and continuing through the summer, offer advantages never before presented to Exposition visitors. The trip to the Oregon Exposition, in addition to the attractiveness of the extensive exhibits, includes the journey through the scenic wonderland of the Rocky Mountains and the Cascade Range, and what American has not looked forward from the days of the geography class in school to the time when those great sights should be seen in reality? The time was never so favorable as now. The trip may be made less expensive than ever. For only a slight difference in fare tourists may extend their trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles. The return trip may be made over a different route, enabling travelers to view much more of the west. For full particulars, fares, dates of special excursions to Portland on account of conventions, through time and passenger service apply to ticket agent of Pennsylvania Lines.
